I like the contrast between the bright letters and dark backgrounds. The unusual background colour makes it stand out which is needed when creating a portfolio.

I also like that the title stands out a lot compared to the other text on the page ==> I would use this for my name.

I like the contrast between the realistic images and cartoon images/ typography. It really shows off the artists creative and dynamic style.

I also like the pastel colours, the pink is similar to the colours in the logo in the first website (Luyu.co)

I probably won't take much from this site but I like the pops of colour from the art works, it creates an interesting and eye-catching home page that clearly shows the artist's style and "vibe". This is something I want to mimic with my portfolio.
